

Meet the SILICON HEARTLAND In Ohio's Columbus Region

When Intel chose the Columbus Region for a record-setting $20B investment in its newest chip manufacturing site in 2022, the Silicon Heartland was born. Production at Intel's two fabs is slated to begin in 2026.

“The (Intel) news arrives at a time when Columbus has entered the national spotlight as a high-tech hub. Startups like Root, Olive and Path have made waves, while big tech firms like Facebook and Amazon have established presences in the city.” – TechCrunch
